Jonathon has almost 25 years' experience in legal practice. He maintains a broad national practice encompassing advice and appearance work in high value commercial disputes and class actions, international arbitration and private international law, public law, regulatory matters and commissions of inquiry.

He is regularly retained by leading law firms and corporate clients to conduct cases throughout Australia at first instance and on appeal, and internationally, including in arbitrations seated in Singapore, London and New York. He is the current Vice President of the Australian Centre for International Commercial Arbitration (ACICA), the peak arbitral body in Australia. His arbitration expertise is also recognised in legal guides including Best Lawyers and the leading global directory Who's Who Legal 2020 and 2021, in which he is described as a "energetic practitioner who pays close attention to detail" with "an incredibly strong practice."

Some of his previous and ongoing clients include BHP Billiton, Caterpillar, CSR, James Hardie, AGL, ATCO, Allianz, McGrath Nicol, Korda Mentha, Chubb, Marsh, Vestas, Samsung, Kimberley Clarke, IOOF, NAB, KPMG, Patersons Securities, and Yara International. He also does a substantial amount of pro bono work for the Human Rights Law Centre.
